

Ellen Arnold Groff Studio Series

FULTON THEATRE

Housed in the Tell Studio Theatre on our 4th floor, the Groff Studio Series showcases new and emerging theatre works sometimes involving more challenging subject matter. In turn, audiences are immersed in the performance they are seeing, reflect on what they've experienced as an audience member, and participate in meaningful dialogue and debate with those around them.

Another point that draws interest to the Studio Series is the space's ever-changing design. The 4th floor studio typically seats around 100 people but is configured differently according to the needs of the current show. This malleability allows a unique, tailored experience for the audience, cast, and crew.

Below are photos featuring past different designs of the 4th floor theater.

